W. E. Barnes Reports News of a Find Antedating Present Day History.

Present Day History.

Tacson, Ariz, Oct 14—W. E. Barnes, traveling freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific company, has returned from a business trip to Nogales. Mr. Barnes reports that Leais Block, a well known mining man, created a mild sensation in Nogales by reporting the discovery in the mountains near Nogales of the perifical adoleston of a mantodon, and in proof of his assertion exhibited the signalis jaw home of the ancient minimal, which has test four inches long. This he presented to C. H. Hector, manager of the International Deng company, who new has it on exhibition. Mr. Barnes was called in to Bentify the giant fragment. He mays: Them a hasty examination I should judge that the portion brought in by Mr. Block was the lower right hand law, belonging to the true mastedom which abounded in North America, contemporaceous with the salars tooth lion. The name 'mastodom' is from the Greek words meaning 'breast' and 'tooth,' and was given by the great Carlet to the ancestors of the elephant which once abounded in North America from Alaska to Central America, disappearing at about the close of the Miscouse period. I am of the opinion that the remains of the animal discovered by Mr. Block belonged to the Pilocene period, when the great lind masses of the carlt had assisted their present conflicturations. "The mastodon of the carlier period was an unsightly animal. It had a pair of tusts in both upper and lower faw. The tusts curved inward forming in appearance a pair of lyory lee tongs, a fat projecting numbe. Remains of the mastodon are found all over the world. The animal became extinct in Europe at the close of the Filocene period, when the great lind masses of the particular animal met its death in combat with a terrible salore tooth ilon, on a foraging trip from Alaska to the suff.

"An effort should be made to obtain as much as possible of the skeleton for the University museum at Tucson."

ALHAMBRA—VALDEVILLE.

The allambra management has surcosded in giving its patrons the best vaudeville bill ever presented in El Paso, consisting of four big acts, and overy one a pennant winner. King Baxter" presents the horse with human brains, the most intelligent animal ever presented on any stage. Noel and Irville are entertainers who will please you and then give you the big surprise at the finish of their act, watch them. "Toki Murati," a slack wire artist, is a marvel at his profession—in fact, he is the most finished performer in his line that Japan has ever produced—and last, but not least, the Two Kings will be seen in a juvenile singing and dancing act. These two children are 16 and 12 years of age, respectively, and are the kingplus an invenile artists. Their act created a sensation in San Antonio and was prenounced a "scream" by the papers. On the bill is also a feature dramatic pieture, entitled "The Lost Prince." Again the management repeats that this bill is composed of headliners and will pack the house every night. So come carly and avoid the crowds. Thous open at 11 a.m. pictures only to 5 p. m.) and the admission in 5 and 15 cents; evenings after 6 p. m. (vaude-ville and pictures), admission in 15 and 25 cents. Remember threve is a complete change of bill tonight.—Adv.

Students Live In a Tent; Attending State University

FRED ANDERSON AND W. W. KEITH, JR.,

In Their Tent House Near the Texas University Campus.

A USTIN, Tex., Oct. 14—Fred Anderson and W. W. Keith, jr., students at the university of Texas, are determined to get an education if they have to live in a tent to do it. They have cut living expenses down to $10 a piece per month, and are doing regular academic work in the university. They half from Dallas, having been graduated from the Dallas high school last spring. During the summer they worked in the circulation department of two Dallas newspapers. The tent occupies one of the highest points in Austin, five blocks east of the university campus, and is almost completely enclosed by dense growths of codar, and heavily stadied by live oak and postcak trees. The table serves as a study table when the dishes from the evening meal have been eleaned away. A cooking stove, a bed, two or three camp chairs and a rude home-made bookcase complete the furnishings of this original student dormitory, shown in the above cut.
